Where to Start

Choosing wedding flowers is an essential part of wedding planning as they can set the tone for the entire event. Here are steps to help you select the perfect flowers for your wedding:

-  Establish Your Budget: Determine how much you're willing to spend on flowers for your wedding. This will help guide your choices and prevent overspending.
-  Do Your Research: Look for inspiration on social media platforms like Pinterest or Instagram and floral shops' websites. Save images of bouquets, centerpieces, and arrangements that appeal to you.
-  Consider the Season: Consider the season in which your wedding will occur. Choosing flowers in season can help reduce costs and ensure the freshest blooms.
-  Think About Your Wedding Theme and Colours: Consider the overall theme and colour scheme. Your flowers should complement these elements and enhance the overall aesthetic.
-  Be Open to Suggestions: While it's essential to have a clear vision for your wedding flowers, don't be afraid to listen to your florist's recommendations. They have expertise in floral design and may suggest options you hadn't considered that could enhance your arrangements.
-  Prioritise: Decide which floral elements are most important to you, such as bridal bouquets, ceremony decor, or reception centerpieces. Allocate a larger portion of your budget to these key areas.
-  Finally: contact us to book in a complementary consultation either in person or via zoom, alternatively email through your inspiration photos and a list of floral elements you would like..
